Background: In 1980, the Legislature statutorily created a crime laboratory system within the Washington State Patrol. The crime lab system is designed to provide handling and analysis of physical evidence relating to any crime. The State Patrol is also directed to provide training for local law enforcement personnel.

Although permanent statute does not require any specific structure or organization for the crime lab system, budget provisos and administrative practice have resulted in a system that consists of a number of "satellite" labs around the State. Currently there are six labs. They are located in Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Everett, Kelso, and Kennewick. Some of the labs provide a more complete range of laboratory services than others.

The State Patrol has considered closing the satellite labs and consolidating services.

Summary of Bill: The State Patrol is required to maintain the crime lab system in at least the same locations as it did on December 31, 1990. The patrol must provide services at those locations through June 30, 1993.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: The bill contains an emergency clause and takes effect immediately.

Testimony For: (Judiciary) The satellite labs provide service to law enforcement agencies in parts of the State where having to rely on one or a few centrally located labs would result in great inefficiency and delay.

(Appropriations) None.

Testimony Against: (Judiciary) The State Patrol ought to have the administrative flexibility to organize the crime lab system in the most efficient manner possible.

(Appropriations) None.

Witnesses: (Judiciary) Norm Maleng, King County Prosecutor (in favor); Jim Nagle, Walla Walla County Prosecutor (in favor); Jack Burchard, Okanogan County Prosecutor (in favor); Art Curtis, Clark County Prosecutor (in favor); Andy Miller, Benton County Prosecutor (in favor); Dawn Larsen, Washington Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs (in favor); Ed Crawford, Washington State Patrol (opposes); Larry Mount, Whatcom County Sheriff (in favor); Joe Hawe, Clallam County Sheriff (in favor); Randy Hamilton, Chehalis Police Department (in favor); and Jim Kennedy, Benton County Sheriff (in favor).
