Sponsor(s): Senators Patterson, Vognild and Rasmussen; by request of Utilities & Transportation Commission.

Reported by House Committee on:

Staff: Mary McLaughlin (786-7309).

Background: The maximum amount a passenger or shipper may recover for loss or damage to baggage transported by a for-hire bus (auto stage, airporter, excursion, charter) regulated by the Utilities and Transportation Commission is: (1) $200 for each trunk and its contents; (2) $50 for each suitcase, valise or traveling bag and its contents; and (3) $25 for each box, bundle or package. These free baggage allowance limitations were established in 1961.

When a passenger checks his/her baggage with the carrier, the passenger can declare that the baggage has a value in excess of the statutory limitation and pay an additional charge. The rate varies from 50 cents to 75 cents per $100 valuation, depending upon the amount contained in the individual carrier's published tariff.

On the federal level, the Interstate Commerce Commission's free baggage allowance limitation is $250 per adult fare, unless a higher valuation is declared at the time of delivery to the carrier and an additional fee is paid. The carrier may publish a maximum additional value for which they will be liable, but the maximum value may not be less than $1,000.

Summary of Bill: The free baggage allowance limitation is changed from a statutorily fixed amount to an amount set by the Utilities and Transportation Commission. Periodic review and rate adjust is required of the commission.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: Changing the free baggage allowance limitation from a statutorily fixed fee to an amount determined by the commission will better reflect replacement costs.
