Background: Gasohol, 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent ethanol, reduces dependency on imported oil, makes use of indigenous, renewable feedstocks, and its use results in less air pollution.

A number of financial incentives have been established to encourage production of ethanol for use in gasohol and for distributing gasohol. Among these is exemption of motor vehicle fuel alcohol manufacturers and gasohol distributors from the business and occupation tax and partial exemption from motor vehicle fuel tax until December 31, 1992.

Summary of Bill: The motor vehicle fuel tax exemption is continued until December 31, 1999.

The director of the Department of Agriculture, with concurrence of the Department of Ecology, may grant a variance from the American Society for Testing Materials (ASTM) standards for motor vehicle fuels if necessary to produce a fuel with lower emissions.

Fiscal Note: Requested March 4, 1991.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Energy & Utilities): State surplus farm crops, including spoiled ones that must be destroyed, make excellent feedstocks for ethanol production.

Increased gasohol use will improve the state's agricultural and broader economy, lessen dependence on foreign oil, and reduce air pollution.

(Transportation): Increased gasohol use will lessen dependence on foreign oil and reduce air pollution.

Testimony Against: (Energy & Utilities): There is potential for damage to engines, dangerously so for two-cycle engines. The warning on gas pumps may not get everyone's attention. There is increased formaldehyde formulation. The preference would be having a variety of choices in fuel blending.

(Transportation): None.
