13 "NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The legislature finds that installation of 14 trickle irrigation systems in climatically and economically suitable 15 areas may result in significant water savings. The legislature further 16 finds that encouraging the voluntary transfer of the water savings will 17 provide an incentive for the installation of trickle irrigation 18 systems.

19 Therefore, the legislature directs the committee on natural 20 resources and parks in the house of representatives and the committee 21 on energy and utilities in the senate to jointly: (1) Study the 22 physical, legal, and economic feasibility of transferring water saved 23 from installation of trickle irrigation systems; (2) explore the 24 relationship between a possible water transfer program connected to 25 water savings from trickle irrigation systems and the state's existing 26 trust water rights program; and (3) make recommendations for 27 legislation to implement a transfer program for savings from trickle 28 irrigation systems, if the committees determine that such a program is 29 in the public interest. The committees shall coordinate the study with 30 the agriculture committees in the senate and the house of 31 representatives. The committees shall report their findings and 32 recommendations to the legislature by December 1, 1993."
