Background: Local governments that are authorized to impose property taxes are also authorized to issue general indebtedness or general obligation bonds.

Constitutional and statutory limitations exist on the cumulative amount of general indebtedness that different types of these local government taxing districts may incur. Normally two different general indebtedness limitations are established for a taxing district, first an amount of non-voter approved, or councilmanic, indebtedness, and second an overall amount of indebtedness that includes both non-voter approved and voter approved general indebtedness. Statutes that establish debt limitations for different taxing districts also establish the maximum term of the debt or bonds. The most common maximum term for both voter approved and non-voter approved general indebtedness is 40 years.

Fire protection districts are authorized to incur both non-voter approved general indebtedness and an overall amount of both voter approved and non-voter approved indebtedness. The maximum term of non-voter approved general indebtedness that a fire protection district may incur is six years. The maximum term of voter approved general indebtedness that a fire protection district may incur is 20 years.

Summary of Bill: The maximum term of non-voter approved general indebtedness that a fire protection district may incur is increased from six years to 15 years.

EFFECT OF SENATE AMENDMENT(S): The maximum term for non-voter approved general indebtedness that a fire district may incur is increased from 15 years to 20 years.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: This modernizes fire district statutes. Fire trucks have a life expectancy far in excess of 15 years.

Testimony Against: None.

Witnesses: Pete Spiller, Washington Fire Commissioners Association.
