Staff: John Conniff (786-7119); and Maureen Morris (786-7152).

Background: Health insurance companies, health care service contractors, and health maintenance organizations do not cover health care or treatment deemed experimental or investigative. However, often there is not agreement among insurers or health care providers as to whether care or treatment is experimental or investigative. As a result, some consumers obtain treatment that other consumers are unable to obtain.

Summary of Bill: The Medical Health Coverage Benefit Committee is created in the office of the Insurance Commissioner comprising seven members appointed by the commissioner on the basis of their knowledge and experience in health care services. The committee must consider, develop, and recommend criteria to guide future action of health care coverage providers in determining whether a procedure, treatment, drug, or other health care service is experimental, investigative, or efficacious for purposes of extending health care coverage.

Members of the committee serve four year terms, cannot serve in a similar capacity with a health care coverage provider, cannot be advocates for groups promoting the use of particular health care services or treatments, and must review health care issues without regard to individual disputes between consumers and health care coverage providers.

The chapter creating the committee expires on July 1, 1998.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Health Care) This bill will establish a clear process to determine what services are experimental and investigative.

(Appropriations) This bill addresses a serious problem of concern to many members of the public. The amendment offered by the Appropriations Committee will address many of the concerns expressed by the insurance industry. By terminating the statute by 1998, the legislation will not conflict with health reform.

Testimony Against: (Health Care) None.

(Appropriations) None.

Witnesses: (Health Care) Deborah Senn, Dr. Diana Berry, Porsha Moore, Jo Henderson, Richard Spoonmore and Sol Riffkin, Office of the Insurance Commissioner (pro); Cheryl Quackenbush, ADAMS; Symma Winston, Health Challenges; and Dr. Nancy Purcell, Washington State Medical Association (pro).

(Appropriations) Representative Dellwo (pro).
