Background: The state of Washington periodically issues general obligation bonds to finance capital construction projects throughout the state. The specific legislative approval of a capital project is contained in the Capital Appropriations Act. Those appropriations requiring state bonding depend on legislation authorizing the sale of bonds. Bond authorization legislation requires a 60 percent majority vote in both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Summary of Bill: The State Finance Committee is authorized to issue $928,850,000 in state general obligation bonds to finance new construction and other state projects contained in the 1993-95 capital budget. Of this total, $890,230,000 is deposited into the state building construction account, $1.5 million into the Fruit Commission facility account, and $1 million into the energy efficiency services account. The Fruit Commission facility account is created and all principal and interest on bonds issued for the account will be paid from the Fruit Commission's operating fund. The bonds for the Fruit Commission can be sold only after the Office of Financial Management has certified that the commission has adequate revenues to pay the debt service on the bonds and has approved the plans for the facility.

The State Finance Committee is authorized to issue an additional $13,835,000 of bonds for the State Convention and Trade Center to finance the purchase of the McKay parcel and development rights for the McKay parcel. Principal and interest on these bonds will be paid from the convention center (hotel/motel) tax.
