Background: A registered tow truck operator who has complied with all impoundment and notification laws has a lien upon a vehicle for the towing and storage charges incurred.

In addition to the lien, a registered tow truck operator has a deficiency claim against the registered owner of the vehicle for towing and storage of the vehicle not to exceed $300 less the amount bid at auction, and for vehicles over 10,000 pounds gross vehicle weight, the deficiency is $1,000.

Summary of Substitute Bill: The last registered owner of record is presumed liable for the abandonment of a vehicle unless the owner has filed a seller's report or vehicle theft report. If an unauthorized vehicle is unredeemed, then the last registered owner is guilty of a traffic infraction.

Substitute Bill Compared to Original Bill: The terms "junk vehicle" and "automobile hulk" are deleted. If a vehicle theft report is filed, a registered owner is not held liable for costs incurred from a vehicle impound.

Fiscal Note: Requested February 2, 1993.

Effective Date of Substitute Bill: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: This bill will aid in the disposal of abandoned vehicles by providing the tow truck operator with a greater level of assurance that he will be compensated for his services.
