Background: The Department of Social and Health Services investigates fraud in the aid to families with dependent children program and food stamp program through the Office of Special Investigations. The Office of Special Investigations uses the fraud early detection process to investigate applicants and recipients who provide information during the application and recertification processes that contains apparent discrepancies. The Office of Special Investigations also provides a welfare fraud hotline used to report people suspected of fraud and abuse. The Office of Special Investigations also provides general investigations covering all department programs, and a special investigative unit that investigates allegations against department employees who are suspected of criminal or administrative misconduct.

Summary of Bill: The Office of Inspector General is created in the Department of Social and Health Services. The Inspector General will investigate allegations of abuse and fraud in the department's programs, except for provider fraud related to the medicaid program. Annual reports will be made to the appropriate legislative committees on the activities of the Inspector General on January 1, 1996 and January 1, 1997. After that the Inspector General will make biennial reports to the appropriate legislative committees. The Inspector General is appointed by the Governor and can be removed from office by the Governor.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date of Bill: The bill contains an emergency clause and takes effect on July 1, 1995.
