Background: The state of Washington regulates gambling under the Gambling Act of 1973. Currently, the state has not authorized either live or simulcast of greyhound racing for the purpose of public exhibition, parimutuel betting, or special exhibition events.

Summary of Bill: Greyhound racing is prohibited in the state of Washington. A person may not (1) hold, conduct, or operate live greyhound racing in the state for public exhibition, parimutuel betting, or special exhibition events; or (2) transmit or receive intrastate or interstate simulcasting of greyhound racing for commercial, parimutuel, or exhibition purposes. Greyhound exhibits can be held, provided that gambling activities are not conducted.

Violation of the act is a class B felony (professional gambling in the first degree) which is punishable by confinement in a state correctional institution for a maximum term up to 10 years, or by a maximum fine up to $20,000, or both confinement and fine.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: The state needs to ban this activity. Greyhound racing is having financial problems in other states. The treatment that greyhounds receive is inhumane, and owners are destroying dogs that can no longer race. Greyhounds are often abused by their trainers and kept locked up in small cages for long periods. Although there are efforts to place greyhounds in the homes of people that want them, they are reaching the limits.

Testimony Against: None.

Testified: (Pro) Representative Steve Van Luven, prime sponsor; Will Anderson, Progressive Animal Welfare Society; Mimi Cristall, Ann Maria Shields, and Jim Walker, Greyhound Protection League; Kay Farrell, Equal Animal Rights Society; Helena Shelley, Tears for Pasado; Debra Lorsbach; and Mary Lou Calo.
