20 (f) One representative of cities, appointed by the governor upon 21 the advice of the association of Washington cities; and

22 (g) One representative of the telecommunications industry,
23 appointed by the governor.-

EFFECT: Reconfigures the advisory committee to remove requirements that legislative members be in specified proportions from specified committees. Eliminates provisions requiring the appointment of alternate members. Decreases the number of Governor's representatives from two to one, and eliminates the member from the department of information services. Adds one representative each from the counties, cities, and telecommunications industry, to be appointed by the Governor. Increases the size of the committee from 10 to 13.
