Sommers, Vice Chairman; Scott, Ranking Minority Member; Gardner, Assistant Ranking Minority Member; Doumit; Dunshee; Murray; Reams; Smith; L. Thomas; Wensman and Wolfe.

Background: Various state agencies employ investigators, including the state patrol, public disclosure commission, state auditors office, and attorney general's office.

Summary of Bill: A study group is created to develop mandatory training, policies and procedures for state investigators.

The study group consists of the following 13 members: The attorney general, chief of the state patrol, state auditor, one legislator from each caucus of the Senate and House of Representatives, a representative of the Governor's office, two representatives of state agencies appointed by the Governor, a representative appointed by the Washington Association of Prosecuting Attorneys, a representative appointed by the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs, and a representative appointed by the criminal justice program at the Washington State University. The attorney general and chief of the state patrol co-chair the study group.

The Office of the Attorney General provides staff and administrative support for the study group.

The study group develops minimum training requirements, including training requirements for civil and criminal investigations, evaluates current training requirements and policies, recommends who will provide training, recommends basic policies and procedures for investigators, develops cost estimates for mandatory training, and makes recommendations on the scope of duties and responsibilities of state investigators.

The study group is directed to deliver its recommendations to the Legislature by December 1, 1997, and the law expires on June 1, 1998.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on February 11, 1997.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: The Office of the Attorney General will absorb the costs of the study. This is very important. We need coordinated training. In some instances a civil investigation can impair a subsequent criminal investigation.

Testimony Against: None.

Testified: Annette Sandberg, Washington State Patrol; Christine Gregoire, Attorney General; and Gary Gilbert, Liquor Control Board.
