Background: The Growth Management Act (GMA) authorizes development of master planned resorts. A master planned resort is a self-contained and fully integrated planned unit development, in a setting of significant natural amenities, with primary focus on destination resort facilities consisting of short-term visitor accommodations associated with on-site recreational facilities. Other residential uses may be included within the boundaries of a master planned resort if those uses are integrated into and support the on-site recreational nature of the resort.

One of the criteria specified for a county's approval of a master planned resort is the county's determination that on-site and off-site infrastructure impacts have been fully considered and mitigated.

Summary of Bill: Master planned resorts are expressly authorized to use outside service providers for capital facilities, services and utilities or to share facilities, services and utilities with outsider service providers.

An intent section is added specifying that the changes to master planned resort statutes are based on recommendations from the 1994 Department of Community, Trade and Economic Development Master Planned Resort Task Force.

Master planned resorts are authorized to use capital facilities, utilities and services (including those related to sewer, water, storm water, security, fire suppression and emergency medical) from outside service providers. Any capital facilities, utilities and services provided on-site are limited to those meeting the needs of the master planned resort. The master planned resort bears the full costs related to service extensions and capacity increases directly attributable to the resort.

The outside service providers and the master planned resort may agree to share capital facilities, utilities and services. Any shared facilities and utilities may serve only the master planned resort and urban growth areas.

All waters or use of waters are to be regulated and controlled by the water code, chapter 90.03 RCW, and the groundwater code, chapter 90.44 RCW. The authorization for master planned resorts to use or share facilities, services and utilities with outside service providers does not: affect priority for or issuance of water rights permits; alter the place of use for a water right; or affect or impair any existing water right.

In addition to the determination that infrastructure impacts have been considered and mitigated, a county may approve a master planned resort only after determining that on-site and off-site service impacts are fully considered and mitigated.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: Allowing shared facilities is good for both the master planned resort and the local governments and is a useful approach to economic development. Agreements between master planned resorts and cities are probably already permitted under the GMA. The DCTED task force concluded agreements should be allowed as long as the master planned resorts pay all their own costs, and this bill guarantees that master planned resorts will assume that financial responsibility. Surrounding municipalities who have serious infrastructure needs and cannot meet regulatory requirements may be benefitted.

(Original bill) The bill may need to be changed to emphasize there is no intent to impair existing water rights or to change priority for water rights and to clarify that shared facilities may only serve the master planned resort and urban growth areas.

Testimony Against: This bill may impair the ability of local governments to plan their own facilities and may not be necessary because the service is already allowed. (Original bill) This bill may complicate and confuse water rights issues. No entity should be given an advantage or priority in obtaining water rights. Master planned resorts and cities should not be able to avoid the Department of Ecology's instream flow requirements. Facilities developed under these agreements should not be permitted to provide service outside urban growth areas.
