Background: Procedures to elect a person to fill a vacancy in non-partisan elected office, other than a judicial position or the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, follow the same procedure for electing a person to a full term of such an office.

However, procedures to elect a person to fill a vacancy in a partisan elected office vary from the procedures for electing persons to full terms of such offices. A primary is held as a part of the process to fill a vacancy in a partisan elected office only if two or more persons file declarations of candidacy from the same major political party.

Summary of Bill: Procedures are modified to fill a vacancy in several elected offices.

A primary is held as part of the process to fill a vacancy in a partisan office in the executive or legislative branch of state government if two or more persons, without regard to their parties, file declarations of candidacy for the office, rather only if two or more persons file declarations of candidacy from the same major political party.

It is clarified that the Office of Mayor, in a city with a mayor council form of government, is filled following the procedure by which a person is elected to that office at the next municipal general election that occurs 45 or more days after the vacancy occurred.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: (Government Administration) As much as possible the process to fill vacancies should follow the same procedure as for electing people to full terms of office. Several legislative vacancies have occurred and no primary was held because no more than one candidate from either major party filed their declarations of candidacy.

(Appropriations) People who run for major political partisan offices should have a primary. This bill makes a process for filling a vacancy in a state political partisan office more like running for office.

Testimony Against: (Government Administration) None.

(Appropriations) None.

Testified: (Government Administration) Representative Dave Schmidt, prime sponsor; John Pearson, Office of the Secretary of State; and Doug Cochran, Yakima County Auditor.

(Appropriations) Representative Dave Schmidt, prime sponsor.
