SENATE COMMITTEE ON LAW & JUSTICE

Staff: Dick Armstrong (786-7460)

Background: The Crime Victims Act of 1973 established Washington's Crime Victims' Compensation Program (CVCP) to provide benefits to innocent victims of criminal acts. The Department of Labor and Industries was assigned authority for administering the program because benefits available to crime victims under this program were originally based on benefits paid to injured workers under the Industrial Insurance Act.

Benefits under CVCP include medical and mental health costs, disability payments and benefits for survivors of deceased victims. All benefits are paid secondary to available insurance resources of the victim.

The Industrial Insurance Program uses private attorneys appointed by the Office of the Attorney General in making recoveries for costs incurred by the department and injured workers due to the liability of third parties. Currently, CVCP does not have a similar program to help recover money from convicted offenders and third parties.

Summary of Bill: The Crime Victims' Compensation Program is authorized to designate private attorneys as special assistant Attorneys General to pursue civil legal actions against criminal offenders and third parties for costs incurred by injured crime victims and CVCP.
