House Committee on Higher Education

Background: In 1983, the Whitman County Superior Court concluded in Blair v. Washington State University that Washington State University discriminated against its female athletes. Based on the Washington Equal Rights Amendment, the court required the university to provide intercollegiate athletic opportunities at a proportionate rate to its male and female student population.

In 1989, the Legislature gave the four-year higher education institutions the authority to waive up to 1 percent of their estimated tuition and fee revenue to achieve or maintain gender equity in intercollegiate athletic programs. The tuition waiver authority will sunset June 30, 1997. The Legislature also required the institutions to provide athletic opportunities for an under-represented gender at the same rate as that gender participated in high school athletics.

The Higher Education Coordinating Board must report to the Legislature every two years regarding institutional efforts to achieve gender equity.

Summary: The sunset date for tuition waiver authority is repealed.

By June 30, 2002, institutions of higher education shall strive to achieve equitable participation in their intercollegiate athletics programs. Equitable means that the ratio of female and male students participating in intercollegiate athletics is substantially proportionate to the ratio of female and male students who are 17 to 24-year-old undergraduates enrolled full-time on the main campus.

Beginning in the 1999-2000 academic year, an institution that does not provide, by June 30, 1998, athletic opportunities for an historically under-represented gender class at the high school rate must have a new plan for achieving gender equity in intercollegiate athletics approved by the Higher Education Coordinating Board before providing further waivers.

Beginning in the 2003-2004 academic year, an institution that is not within 5 percent of equity by June 30, 2002, must have a new plan for achieving gender equity in intercollegiate athletics approved by the Higher Education Coordinating Board before providing further waivers.

The Higher Education Coordinating Board must report every four years beginning in 1998, on institutional efforts to comply with the gender equity requirements.
