Background:

Individuals are committed to state mental hospitals through legal procedures in superior court. Once admitted, a physician is involved in medical decisions related to the care of the individual. Terms used in the legal system and the medical system are not consistently used. The potential for confusion exists for such terms as "admission," "discharge," "detention," "commitment," and "release."

Summary of Bill:

A consistent set of legal and medical terms involving individuals served in state mental hospitals will be used. Potential confusion involving individuals' legal, medical, and financial status will be clarified.

EFFECT OF SENATE AMENDMENT(S): The Senate striking amendment clarifies internal references in the RCW and simplifies the wording of statutory definitions. No substantive changes are made to the underlying House language.
