Background: An increase in population and recreational activity has put increased demands on the state's park system. As a result, state parks have suffered from insufficient funding to both maintain its facilities and expand the services it offers to the public.

Park systems in some cities and other states have created nonprofit organizations to gather contributions to help support their increased needs.

Summary of Bill: A nonprofit foundation is established by the Parks and Recreation Commission to receive support, cooperation, and donations from outside sources for the purposes of benefitting the state parks. The foundation is governed by a board of 15 directors, initially appointed by the Governor and subsequently elected by the membership.

The foundation is to be organized so as to achieve federal tax-exempt status and solicit money from private sources. Funds may be used to create an endowment, distributed immediately, or both. Funds are awarded at least annually by a competitive grant process to projects suggested by the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Testimony For: This is a great method of providing help the parks system needs. There is tremendous citizen and corporate support for the parks. A foundation will be an effective means of encouraging, building, and directing that support, especially gaining the support of those who don't give to government. A private foundation is more flexible and can act with more speed to address park needs. Other states that have formed foundations have found great success, if done properly. The close relationship of the commission directing requests to the foundation is essential.

Testimony Against: None.

Testified: PRO: Jim King, Coalition for Parks and Recreation; Rex Derr, State Parks.
