Background: Recreational fishing is legal without a fishing license for persons under the care of a state licensed or state-operated care facility that obtains a group fishing permit from the director.

Family members or caregivers of the persons in the state authorized care facility desire to fish in the group authorized activity without a license.

Summary of Substitute Bill: The director is given the authority to issue a group fishing permit. Nonprofit facilities are now eligible for group fishing permits. The definition of persons who may participate under a group fishing permit is expanded to include handicapped and seriously or terminally ill persons.

Group fishing permits are restricted in use to open seasons or occasional use.

The Fish and Wildlife Commission must adopt rules governing the issuance of group fishing permits.

Substitute Bill Compared to Original Bill: The group fishing permit is valid only for persons who are in the care of the facility, for occasional use and during open season periods. The director must issue group fishing permits if applicants meet conditions specified by the Fish and Wildlife Commission.
