- Deems approved any complete and correct renewal application submitted on time.
- Keeps licenses valid up to 35 days past the expiration date, if no correct and complete renewal application has been received.

Hearing Date: 2/23/04

Staff: Susan Kavanaugh (786-7106).

Background:

"Transient accommodations" are hotels, motels, resorts, and other facilities that offer three or more lodging units for short-term use. Those who operate transient accommodations are required to obtain a license from the Department of Health (Department). Operation of a transient accommodation without a valid license is prohibited and constitutes a misdemeanor.

The Department is directed to set fees for transient of accommodation licenses to cover the cost of regulation. Annual licensing fees range from $150 for a facility with 10 or fewer units to $600 for one with 50 or more. Applications for a new license must be submitted at least 60 days before opening a transient accommodation for business.

Transient accommodation licenses must be renewed each year. By statute, application for renewal of a license must be made 30 days before it expires. By rule, a $50 penalty is charged on applications delivered or postmarked after this deadline.

Summary of Bill:

Application for renewal of a transient accommodation license are allowed to be postmarked or received by the Department as late as the date the license expires.

A renewal application that is submitted on time and correct and complete is deemed valid for the following year, unless the Department goes through the administrative procedure to suspend or revoke it.

If the operator of a transient application fails to submit an application on time, or if the application submitted does not meet the requirements of the statute, rules or fee schedule, the existing license remains valid for up to 35 days after the expiration date. Within this period, any deficiencies in the application must be corrected and a penalty fee paid, or the license becomes invalid. The operator of a transient accommodation must apply for reinstatement of an invalid license under the process required to get a new license.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.
