Background:

An element of statewide transportation planning includes identifying significant state-owned transportation facilities and services. Highways of statewide significance are one category of transportation facilities and services of statewide significance. Such highways include, at a minimum, interstate highways and other statewide principal arterials that are needed to connect major communities across the state and support the state's economy. The Department of Transportation (Department) is responsible for establishing level-of-service standards for highways of statewide significance.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

Designating a highway as a highway of statewide significance means, among other things, that improvements along the highway are given higher priority for improvement funding, and the Growth Management Act concurrency requirements do not apply.

Prior to 2006, the Legislature and the Transportation Commission (Commission) had authority to designate highways of statewide significance. Designations made by the Commission were subject to review and adoption by the Legislature. In 2006, the Commission's authority to make such designations was transferred to the Department.
