southwest Washington including the Fort Vancouver National Historic Site, Pearson Airfield and Air Museum, Officer's Row, Vancouver Barracks, and a section of the Columbia River waterfront. The Reserve is managed by four designated partners, including the state of Washington, the National Park Service, the United States Army, and the City of Vancouver.

Summary of Bill:

The Legislature affirms that the state is a partner in the Reserve and will take an active role in supporting the protection, preservation, interpretation, and rehabilitation of the Reserve. The Washington State Historical Society (Society) is the state's designated partner representative for the Reserve. The Society is directed to participate in coordination meetings and in the development of plans and policies associated with the Reserve, partner with Washington State University and other agencies to manage the Center for Columbia River History, to develop and submit operating and capital budget requests, and to oversee the management of all funds appropriated by the state for the Reserve.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available on original bill.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) Washington was an original signatory on the Reserve's charter 11 years ago when it was created by Congress, but the various state agencies have squabbled ever since as to which one is the proper representative of the state to this unusually significant aggregation of historical resources. All state agencies, along with the federal and local partners, agree that the Washington State Historical Society is the proper designated representative.

(Opposed) None.

Persons Testifying: Senator Pridemore, prime sponsor; Mark Brown, City of Vancouver, Vancouver National Historic Reserve Trust; and Dave Nicandri, Washington State Historical Society.

Persons Signed In To Testify But Not Testifying: None.
