Background: The Yellowstone to Yukon (Y2Y) ecoregion is part of the western mountain system of North America. From Cokeville in west-central Wyoming, Y2Y stretches northwest for 1,990 miles to the Peel River in the northern Yukon. The southeastern edge of the region is near Riverton, Wyoming, and the northwest tip touches the Yukon/Alaska boundary. The region ranges from 125-500 miles wide, corresponding with ecological boundaries along the eastern montane-foothills and the western inland-coastal watersheds. The boundaries of the study area fluctuate, changing with the species or process under consideration.

The Yellowstone to Yukon Conservation Initiative, which began in 1993, is a joint Canadian-U.S. network of over 800 organizations, institutions, foundations, and conservationists. The stated purpose of the Y2Y Conservation Initiative is to define and designate a life-sustaining network of wildlife cores, movement corridors and transition areas throughout the Y2Y ecogregion.

Summary of Bill: The Department of Fish and Wildlife is required to participate with wildlife management agencies and conservation organizations in other states and provinces comprising the Canadian Rocky mountains ecoregional area, in the cooperative programs of the Yukon to Yellowstone conservation initiative.

The Department is also directed to actively seek to involve local governments, landowners, and local conservation organizations in the initiative, when the Yukon to Yellowstone conservation initiative has identified priority species, habitats, or landscapes lying within Washington State. The Department is authorized to integrate these activities with other cooperative work the Department undertakes with other state and provinces that share ecoregional areas with Washington State.

EFFECT OF CHANGES MADE BY RECOMMENDED SUBSTITUTE AS PASSED COMMITTEE (Natural Resources, Ocean & Recreation): As the largest city in the part of the Y2Y ecogregion located within the United States, Spokane Washington is recognized as the United States capital of Y2Y.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.

Committee/Commission/Task Force Created: No.

Effective Date: Ninety days after adjournment of session in which bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony: OTHER: The Department would be pleased to participate with the Yellowstone to Yukon Conservation Initiative. We are very supportive of this group's work. The Department is well positioned to work in collaboration with other states and provinces. Even without this bill we intend to work to participate in the ecoregional work Y2Y performs that involves Washington State.

Persons Testifying: OTHER: Rocky Beach, Department of Fish and Wildlife.
