serving in active military service or are missing in action or prisoners of war. To be eligible, a child must be a Washington domiciliary between the age of 17 and 26.

"Totally disabled" for purposes of this waiver is defined in two different places in the statute. First, it is defined by reference to another Washington statute which provides that the term "means a person who has become totally and permanently disabled for life by bodily injury or disease, and is thereby prevented from performing any occupation or gainful pursuit." Elsewhere in this waiver statute, the same term is defined to mean "a person who has been determined to be 100 percent disabled by the federal Department of Veterans Affairs."

The fees which must be waived include all assessments for costs incurred as a condition of a student's full participation in coursework and related activities. Students receiving the waivers may attend full- or part-time but, in no case, may the waivers exceed 200 quarter credits or the semester equivalent. A recipient's continued eligibility is subject to the school's satisfactory progress policy.

Tuition waivers for graduate students are encouraged but not required.

Every two years, the governing boards of institutions of higher education must report on the use of tuition waivers for veterans and National Guard members. The first report is due November 15, 2010.

Summary of Amended Bill:

For purposes of this waiver: "child" is defined to mean a biological child, adopted child, or stepchild.

The reference to a second, separate statutory definition of "totally disabled" is stricken, leaving a single definition of the term. "Totally disabled" means "a person who has been determined to be 100 percent disabled by the federal Department of Veterans Affairs."

Amended Bill Compared to Original Bill:
