SENATE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY

Staff: Juliana Roe (786-7438)

Background: Applicants that have been offered a conditional offer of employment as a commissioned peace officer or a reserve officer, including those whose certifications have lapsed, must pass a psychological examination, in addition to other tests, as a condition of continuing employment. The psychological examination must be administered by a psychiatrist or psychologist licensed in Washington. The examination must consist of a standardized clinical test that is widely used as an objective screening tool for personality and psychosocial disorders. The test used and conditions under which the test is administered, scored, and interpreted must comply with accepted psychological standards. Additional tests can be administered at the option of the employing law enforcement agency.

Proponents of this legislation are concerned that there is currently no uniformity with regard to what psychological tests are being administered in different jurisdictions.

Summary of Bill: The psychological examination must be administered by a psychiatrist or psychologist licensed in Washington and must be in compliance with standards established in rules of the Criminal Justice Training Commission.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.
