Majority Report: Do pass.

Signed by Senators Keiser, Chair; Franklin, Vice Chair; Pflug, Ranking Minority Member; Becker, Fairley, Marr, Murray and Parlette.

Background: Current law provides the Dental Quality Assurance Commission (DQAC) with the authority to issue a license to practice dentistry to persons authorized to practice in another state or country who become faculty members at the University of Washington School of Dentistry. The license to practice dentistry terminates once the holder is no longer a faculty member. The DQAC can (upon request) issue a limited license to practice dentistry to university residents in postgraduate dental education or postdoctorate residents in a dental residency program.

Summary of Bill: The DQAC is specifically named as having authority to issue a limited license to practice dentistry for university residents in postgraduate dental education or postdoctorate residents in commission-approved dental residency programs. This license only permits the resident to provide dental care related to that person's duties as a resident in a commission-approved program.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Not requested.
