Background:

Certain employees of institutions of higher education are covered for purposes of collective bargaining under the Public Employees' Collective Bargaining Act (PECBA), the Personnel System Reform Act (PSRA), or laws applicable to faculty members and academic personnel.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

The PECBA applies to the following employees of institutions of higher education:

- certain employees who are exempt from civil service;
- certain teaching assistants and research assistants at the University of Washington and Washington State University;
- printing craft employees in the University of Washington's Department of Printing; and
- certain classified employees of technical colleges.

The PSRA applies to employees of institutions of higher education covered under the state civil service law.

Other collective bargaining laws apply to public four-year institutions with respect to faculty members, and to community colleges with respect to academic personnel. Postdoctoral and clinical employees are excluded from the faculty bargaining law.

Summary of Bill:

The Public Employees' Collective Bargaining Act applies to postdoctoral and clinical employees, as excluded from the faculty bargaining law, at the University of Washington and Washington State University.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available on original bill.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) This bill is enabling legislation to allow postdoctoral researchers to collectively bargain. Postdoctoral researchers should be granted the same collective bargaining rights as teaching assistants, research assistants, and faculty. They want the protections they received as graduate students. Postdoctoral researchers, who carry out research under the supervision of faculty, are a valuable resource to the universities and to the state. The University of Washington and Washington State University are stellar research institutions that bring a great deal of money into the state through federal research grants.

(Neutral) The concerns with the original bill were addressed in the Senate, and the current version reflects consensus language.

(Opposed) None.

Persons Testifying: (In support) Senator Kohl-Wells, prime sponsor; David Parsons, International Union, United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America Local 4121; Jessica Pikul, University of Washington; and Rebecca Johnson, Washington State Labor Council.

(Neutral) Margaret Shepherd, University of Washington.

Persons Signed In To Testify But Not Testifying: None.
