EFFECT: Prohibits the inclusion of a qualifying patient's personally identifiable information in the Medical Marijuana Authorization Database (Database), including his or her name, social security number, address, and phone number. Requires, for qualifying patients choosing to be in the Database, that the qualifying patient be referenced by age, medical condition, and place of residence.

Requires that information that personally identifies a designated provider be nonreversible.

Removes the requirement that an authorization card include a photograph of the qualifying patient or designated provider.

Removes the authority of qualifying patients and designated providers to request to be removed from the Database prior to the expiration of their authorization cards.

Requires that health care professionals use only one code generated by the Database per patient. Prohibits a health care professional from using of single code from the Database for multiple patients.
