facilitate the health and safety of the vulnerable adult. Such steps may include having a case manager work with the vulnerable adult to:

- determine what care services are needed; and
- help the vulnerable adult get those services, such as emergency shelter, food, medical care, counseling, and help moving if it is necessary.

The APS may also report the abuser to law enforcement, assist in obtaining an emergency protective order or an injunction, and make referrals for legal assistance. Additionally, the APS may work with the Office of the Attorney General to have a guardian appointed.

Summary of Bill:

An "elder justice center" is a senior-focused program that coordinates a multidisciplinary approach to the prevention, investigation, prosecution, and treatment of abandonment, abuse, neglect, and financial exploitation of vulnerable adults.

The DSHS must establish two elder justice center demonstration programs, one in Clark County and the other in Spokane County, and may contract with the counties for the implementation of the programs. These centers must coordinate access to services, including but not limited to:

- adult protective services;
- law enforcement officers;
- a prosecuting attorney;
- a victim advocate; and
- a program coordinator.

Multidisciplinary teams may also include community agencies and systems that are involved with the prevention and response to elder abandonment, abuse, neglect, and financial exploitation.

The county prosecuting attorney, with the assistance of others such as law enforcement, adult protective services, and local advocacy groups, must develop protocols to address coordination of investigations.

The DSHS must submit reports to the Governor and the Legislature as follows:

- by January 10, 2017, a brief progress report describing the status of implementation;
- by January 10, 2018, an interim report outlining the structure and operation of both centers; and
- by December 1, 2019, a final report discussing the effectiveness of the elder justice center model in increasing community capacity to prevent and respond to abandonment, abuse, neglect, and financial exploitation of vulnerable adults. This final report must also contain recommendations for modifying or expanding additional demonstration programs.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on 1/13/16.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.
