Background:

The county auditor conducts all general and elections within the county and is responsible for processing ballots. The county canvassing board canvasses the ballot returns and certifies election results. The results must be certified 14 days after a primary or special election and 21 days after a general election.

An election reconciliation report must be prepared by the county auditor and submitted at the time of the election certification. The county auditor must make the report available on the auditor's website. The report must contain data including:

- the number of registered voters;
- the number of ballots issued, received, counted, and rejected, including provisional, federal write-in, and overseas ballots; and
- the number of voters credited with voting.

Summary of Substitute Bill:

The county auditor must submit the election reconciliation report to the Secretary of State in the form requested by the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State must collect all county reconciliation reports.

Within two months after the last county's election results are certified for a primary or general election, the Secretary of State must prepare a statewide reconciliation report. The statewide report may be in the form designated by the Secretary of State and must be published on the Secretary of State's website at the time it is prepared.

The statewide report must provide a comparison among counties on the rates of votes received, counted, and rejected for all ballots, including provisional, write-in, and overseas ballots. The comparison data may be organized to measure performance, such as by rankings or percentages.

The statewide report also must include an analysis of the data that can be used to gain a better understanding of election administration and policy. The analysis should combine dates over multiple years to provide broader comparisons and reveal trends of voter registration, turnout, and ballot counting. National election statistics should be incorporated into the report to the extent it is available.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (State Government):

(In support) This enhances the use of the county reports that are already produced and direct the Secretary of State to provide a statewide view that compares county election practices and increases ways to improve and standardize election data. There is a national model with the Pew Research Center that compares election results in different states.

(Opposed) None.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (General Government & Information Technology):

(In support) Reconciliation reports already exist, but they are not amalgamated. This would create one report and one place to go to look at the many factors. County auditors already complete two types of reports; certification of results, and, after the 2004 election, reconciliation reports, which they would post on their websites. The reconciliation report is a statistical description of how the vote takes place. Secretary of State Wyman supports this bill. It provides additional performance measures, to ensure that counties are reporting the same statistics under the same label. The amendment would increase the period of time to complete the report as the elections staff is very busy with official duties following an election. The amendment also focuses the report on primaries and general elections, since they are bigger elections with better comparison. The Full-time Equivalent request is because staff are out in the field during this timeframe. Also, there may be some reporting discrepancies to evaluate.

(Opposed) None.
