Education and Family Literacy Act. The Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) was enacted on July 22, 2014, to supersede the WIA and amends the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act, the Wagner-Peyser Act of 1933, and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The WIOA reforms the public workforce system by consolidating job training programs under a single umbrella. Services for unemployed adults, dislocated workers, low-income youth, limited English proficient individuals, those with low literacy skills, and individuals with disabilities seeking vocational rehabilitation are prioritized under WIOA. The WIOA became effective on July 1, 2015, but the new State Unified Plans and Common Performance Accountability provisions take effect July 1, 2016.

The WIA established local Workforce Investment Boards (WIBs) to direct activities for the local workforce investment system. The WIA required that each of the WIBs develop a local strategic plan and oversee the state's WorkSource employment centers. The WIOA changes the name of the WIBs to Workforce Development Boards. Washington has 12 Workforce Development Boards.
