Background: The Department of Labor and Industries (L&I) regulates elevators, factory-assembled structures, and construction contractors. Inspection, permit, and registration fees are collected through all three programs, and L&I can impose penalties on individuals for violations of program rules and regulations. Fees and penalties from the programs are deposited into the state general fund, and L&I gets a general fund appropriation each biennium to cover the enforcement and administrative costs of the programs.

Summary of Bill: The Construction Registration Account (Account) is created in the State Treasury. All revenues generated from elevator, factory-assembled structures, and contractor registration programs, except fines and penalties, are deposited in the Account. Fines and penalties are deposited in the state general fund. Fees deposited into the Account must be set at a level as near as practicable to support the operations of the three programs. Additionally, 7 percent of revenues received into the Account, net of refunds paid to customers, must be transferred into the state general fund quarterly.
