Background:

Property Tax.

All property in Washington State is subject to property tax each year based on the highest and best use of the property, unless a specific exemption is provided by law. Property tax exemptions are currently made available to qualifying organizations including schools, churches, nonprofit hospitals, nursing homes, museums, public meeting halls, and others.

Property Tax Exemption for Low-Income Housing Development.

Property that is owned by a nonprofit for the purpose of developing residences on the property for low-income households is exempt from state and local property taxes for a limited term. So long as the property remains held for the purpose of low-income housing development, the exemption lasts for seven consecutive tax years or until the nonprofit sells the property. they may file for a three-year extension by filing a notice of extension with the Department of Revenue and paying a filing fee.

The property is disqualified from the exemption if:

1. The nonprofit fails to sell the property to a low-income household within the applicable exemption period; or
2. The property is converted to a use other than low-income housing development.

In this case, an additional tax equal to all taxes that would have been previously due without the exemption, plus interest, is due. This additional tax is considered a lien on the property.
