Hearing Date: 2/10/17

Staff: Luke Wickham (786-7146).

Background:

Child Welfare Court Proceedings.

Anyone, including the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS), may file a petition in court alleging that a child should be a dependent of the state due to abuse, neglect, or because there is no parent, guardian, or custodian capable of adequately caring for the child. In counties that have paid probation officers, those officers shall, to the extent possible, determine whether dependency petitions are justifiable. These petitions must be verified and contain a statement of facts that constitute a dependency and the names and residence of the parents if known.

If a court determines that a child is dependent, then the court will conduct periodic reviews and make determinations regarding the child's placement, the provision of services by the DSHS, compliance of the parents, and whether progress has been made by the parents.

This analysis was prepared by non-partisan legislative staff for the use of legislative members in their deliberations. This analysis is not a part of the legislation nor does it constitute a statement of legislative intent.

Under certain circumstances after a child has been removed from the custody of a parent for at least six months pursuant to a finding of dependency, a petition may be filed seeking termination of parental rights.

Summary of Bill:

An exception is made that probation officers do not have to determine whether dependency petitions are justifiable when the DSHS files a dependency petition.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Requested on January 30, 2017.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed.
