SENATE COMMITTEE ON FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS & INSURANCE

Staff: Jeff Olsen (786-7428)

Background: Legislation enacted in 2015 authorizes the use of electronic delivery of insurance notices and documents if the party consents to electronic delivery. A notice or any other document required in an insurance transaction may be delivered, stored, or presented by electronic means so long as it meets the requirements of the Washington Electronic Authentication Act (Act). The Act, enacted in 1996, allows the use of digital signature technology in electronic transactions. For purposes of the Act, digital signature means an electronic signature that is a transformation of a message such that a person having the initial message and the signer's public key can accurately determine whether the transformation was created using the private key that corresponds to the signer's public key. In addition, a digital signature can determine whether the initial message has been altered since the transformation was made. Under the Act, an electronic signature means a signature in electronic form attached to or logically associated with an electronic record including, but not limited to, a digital signature.
