SENATE COMMITTEE ON WAYS & MEANS

Staff: James Kettel (786-7459)

Background: Assisted living facilities are community-based residences that provide housing and basic services to seven or more residents, and are licensed by DSHS. Residents of assisted living facilities are adults who require support and supervision. Each assisted living facility provides a range of services which may include: housekeeping, meals, laundry, activities, assistance with activities of daily living, health support services, and intermittent nursing services.

DSHS is authorized to take regulatory action against an assisted living facility for licensing and inspection violations. These actions include: refusing to issue or renew a license, imposing conditions on a license, imposing civil penalties up to $100, suspending or revoking a license, suspending admissions through a stop placement order, or suspending admission of a specific category of residents through a stop placement order.

Receipts from civil penalties must be deposited in the Assisted Living Facility Temporary Management Account (Account). Funds from the Account may be used to pay for relocating residents to other facilities, to maintain the operation of an assisted living facility pending correction of deficiencies or closure, and to reimburse residents for personal funds or property that has been lost or stolen.

Summary of Bill: Assisted Living Facility Work Group. DSHS must facilitate a work group regarding quality metrics for assisted living facilities. The work group must submit recommendations for a quality metric system, propose a process for monitoring and tracking performance, and a process to inform consumers. An interim report is due to the appropriate legislative committees by September 1, 2019, with a final report due by September 1, 2020. At least one of the work group meetings must review and analyze other states with quality metric methodologies for assisted living facilities and whether the reporting promotes quality of care and if it is unnecessarily burdensome on the assisted living facilities.

The work group consists of DSHS representatives, assisted living provider associations, the Long-Term Care Ombuds, organizations with expertise in serving persons with mental health needs in an institutional setting, organizations with expertise in serving persons with developmental disability needs in an institutional setting, licensed health care professionals with experience caring for geriatric patients, and an Alzheimer's advocacy organization.

Assisted Living Facility Information. DSHS must provide information to consumers about assisted living facilities, including information about site visits, substantiated inspection and complaint investigation reports, citations and remedies, and a listing of licensed assisted living facilities by geographic location.

Civil Penalties. The $100 limit on civil penalties against assisted living facilities for violations of licensing standards is changed to a $100 minimum civil penalty. The maximum penalty is increased to $1,000 per day per violation until July 1, 2019, when it increases to $2,000 through June 30, 2020, and increases to $3,000 beginning on July 1, 2020. When determining the application of civil fines, DSHS may take action using a tiered sanction grid that considers the extent of harm and the regularity of the occurrence. Penalties up to $10,000 are established for the operation of an assisted living facility without a license.

In addition to other permitted uses, the Account may be used for the protection of the health, safety, welfare, and property of residents of assisted living facilities that are not compliant with licensing standards.
