EFFECT: Removes the Statewide Broadband Office's power and duty to update definitions for broadband service in unserved areas.

Removes the specification that the state's definition for broadband service may not be actual speeds less than twenty-five megabits per second download and three megabits per second upload.

Removes the requirement for the office, when developing plans or strategies for broadband deployment, to consider requiring minimum broadband service of twenty-five megabits per second download and three megabits per second upload speed, that is scalable to faster service.
