Background:

Staff Summary of Public Testimony:

(In support) This bill creates the infrastructure to allow Washington to participate in the celebrations of "USA 250." It is a bipartisan bill with no fiscal impact. The account in the bill is created to empower the Committee to fundraise and to receive federal funds that are available. It is similar to what the state did for the celebrations in 1976 and 1989. The Washington State History Museum has the tools and infrastructure to do this. Once the Committee meets, it will be able to decide the breadth of activities it would like to do, which will determine the fiscal impact. Meetings have been ongoing for the last five years as preparation. Many other states have already set up similar Committees, and others are about to do so.

(Opposed) None.
