through 2026. The CYBHWG has a variety of members including legislators, representatives from state agencies, representatives from behavioral health organizations, parents, pediatricians, and youth.

In 2020, the CYBHWG produced a report with recommendations to the Legislature in the following areas:

- prenatal to age five relational health;
- workforce and rates;
- student behavioral health and suicide prevention; and
- youth and young adult continuum of care.

Partnership Access Line. The Partnership Access Line (PAL) is a program administered by the University of Washington Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Science that supports primary care providers—doctors, nurse practitioners, and physician assistants—with questions about mental health care including:

- diagnostic clarification;
- medication adjustment; or
- treatment planning.

A social worker is available through PAL to assist with finding mental health resources for patients. PAL also provides specialized consultation to facilitate referrals for mental health services for teens and children. A two-year pilot, beginning January 1, 2019, and extended through the end of fiscal year 2021, provides a PAL for Moms program. This program provides perinatal mental health consultation, recommendations, and referrals for providers caring for pregnant or postpartum patients, from faculty members with expertise in perinatal mental health.

Diagnostic Classification of Mental Health and Developmental Disorders of Infancy and Early Childhood. The Diagnostic Classification of Mental Health and Developmental Disorders of Infancy and Early Childhood (DC:0-5) is a diagnostic manual for children ages birth through age five designed to help mental health and other professionals recognize mental health and developmental challenges in infants and young children. The DC:0-5 uses diagnostic criteria for classification, case formulation, and intervention.

Summary of Bill: The two-year pilot program to implement the Partnership Access Line for Moms is made permanent. The Partnership Access Line for Kids is renamed the Partnership Access Line for Children and Teens. Identification of an in-network mental health professional for a child within this service may be completed within an average of seven days from call intake processing. Reporting requirements relating to the Partnership Access Lines held by the Health Care Authority and University of Washington which expired on January 1, 2021, are revived and extended indefinitely.

Subject to appropriation, Medicaid requirements are expanded to allow up to five sessions for intake and mental health assessment of children aged birth through six months in home or community settings, including reimbursement for provider travel. Medicaid providers must use the current version of the DC:0-5 diagnostic classification system for mental health assessment and diagnosis of children aged birth through five.

Appropriation: The bill contains a null and void clause requiring specific funding be provided in an omnibus appropriation act.
