Background:

Office of Student Financial Assistance.

The Office of Student Financial Assistance (Office) operates within the Washington Student Achievement Council. The Office administers state and federal financial aid and other education service programs.

Financial Aid Applications.

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is a federal financial aid application used to determine a student's eligibility for federal financial aid.

Summary of Engrossed Substitute Bill:

Subject to the availability of amounts appropriated for this specific purpose, the Native American Apprentice Assistance Program (Program) is established. The Office must administer the Program. Administration duties include publicizing the Program, awarding assistance to eligible participants, and adopting rules and guidelines for the Program in consultation with tribes and state-registered apprenticeship programs. The Office must determine awarding priorities and award amounts. Funding must be prioritized to cover any tuition costs for related supplemental instruction, and additional funding may be used to cover required supplies, tools, materials, work clothing, and living expenses.

To be eligible, a participant must be a member of a federally recognized Indian tribe whose traditional lands and territories included parts of Washington, must file a FAFSA, and must be enrolled in a state-registered apprenticeship program.

The Office must submit a report on the Program to the Governor and the appropriate committees of the Legislature beginning December 1, 2025. The report must include:

- the total number of eligible participants and the number of participants who received a grant;

- the amount that the Office determined the grant amount to be;
- how the Office determined what the grant amount should be; and
- how many members of federally recognized Indian tribes in Washington received a grant versus members of federally recognized Indian tribes from other states.

Appropriation: None.

Fiscal Note: Available.

Effective Date: The bill takes effect 90 days after adjournment of the session in which the bill is passed. However, the bill is null and void unless funded in the budget.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (Postsecondary Education & Workforce):

(In support) Historically, Native American folks have struggled with living conditions, health conditions, and lack of education. When Native American people signed treaties with the federal government, they were guaranteed education in exchange for their land. It has not worked out this way. Historically, Native American people have experienced barriers to getting employment and education. This bill is about creating job opportunities, building a workforce, and strengthening tribal self-sufficiency and governance. The Tulalip Tribe is a federally recognized successor to the tribes who signed the Treaty at Point Elliott. The Tulalip Tribe supports this bill. The state needs to put more resources into assuring that tribal communities have resources to pursue apprenticeships and trades. The Tulalip Tribal Office runs a free program that introduces youth to the construction trade, and this bill will help provide skilled labor to meet shortages. Apprentices are often recruited from no- to low-wage jobs or corrections. These folks are already struggling financially, and they do start making a wage as an apprentice, but they also need money for expenses like work materials and food. This bill will help them get what they need to be comfortable and make the transition to the trades more smoothly. There is already a fund to help Native American folks get to college. This fund to help them get into trades would be appropriate because college is not for everyone. This gives folks a way to get a job.

(Opposed) None.

Staff Summary of Public Testimony (Appropriations):

(In support) Starting and completing an apprenticeship is not an easy feat. This bill helps streamline the process and provides financial assistance to individuals. The first year of an apprenticeship program is the most expensive. Apprenticeship pathways are a reliable and efficient opportunity to move into self-sustaining careers.

(Opposed) None.
