EMERGENCY RULES
DEPARTMENT OF
FISH AND WILDLIFE

[Order 23-107—Filed June 29, 2023, 7:59 a.m., effective June 29, 2023, 7:59 a.m.]

Effective Date of Rule: Immediately upon filing.

Purpose: The purpose of this emergency rule is to close adult summer Chinook retention in the Columbia River, from the Megler-Astoria Bridge to Priest Rapids Dam.

Citation of Rules Affected by this Order: Repealing WAC 220-312-06000Q; and amending WAC 220-312-060.

Statutory Authority for Adoption: RCW 77.04.012, 77.04.020, 77.12.045, and 77.12.047.

Under RCW 34.05.350 the agency for good cause finds that immediate adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for the preservation of the public health, safety, or general welfare, and that observing the time requirements of notice and opportunity to comment upon adoption of a permanent rule would be contrary to the public interest.

Reasons for this Finding: This emergency action closes mainstem recreational adult summer Chinook retention downstream of Priest Rapids Dam. The technical advisory committee (TAC) met on June 26 but did not provide an in-season abundance projection for the summer Chinook return. TAC concurred that the summer Chinook return was tracking less than forecast and expects to downgrade the return on June 29. The states utilized a 30 percent run size reduction in order to calculate potential in-season harvest allocations which indicated that recreational summer Chinook fisheries downstream of Priest Rapids Dam have achieved (111 percent) the area-specific summer Chinook allocation at this reduced abundance. The fishery is consistent with Washington's Upper Columbia Management Agreement and the U.S. v Oregon Management Agreement, associated biological opinion and compact action of June 28, 2023. Conforms Washington state rules with Oregon state rules. The general public welfare is protected with the immediate closure of recreational Chinook retention downstream of Priest Rapids Dam. This limited harvest allows for public use of the resource as well as the maintenance of a sustainable fish population.

Washington and Oregon jointly regulate Columbia River fisheries under the congressionally ratified Columbia River Compact. Four Indian tribes have treaty fishing rights in the Columbia River. The treaties preempt state regulations that fail to allow the tribes an opportunity to take a fair share of the available fish, and the states must manage other fisheries accordingly. Sohappy v. Smith, 302 F. Supp. 899 (D. Or. 1969). A court order sets the current parameters. United States v. Oregon, Civil No. 68-513-KI (D. Or.), Order Adopting 2018-2027 United States v. Oregon Management Agreement (February 26, 2018) (Doc. No. 2607-1). Some salmon and steelhead stocks in the Columbia River are listed as threatened or endangered under the federal Endangered Species Act (ESA). On February 23, 2018, the National Marine Fisheries Service issued a biological opinion under 16 U.S.C. § 1536 that allows for some incidental take of these species in the fisheries as described in the 2018-2027 U.S. v. Oregon Management Agreement.

Some Columbia River Basin salmon and steelhead stocks are listed as threatened or endangered under ESA. The Washington and Oregon fish and wildlife commissions have developed policies to guide the implementation of such biological opinions in the states' regulation of nontreaty fisheries.

Columbia River nontreaty fisheries are monitored very closely to ensure compliance with federal court orders, ESA, and commission guidelines. Because conditions change rapidly, the fisheries are managed almost exclusively by emergency rule. Representatives from the Washington (WDFW) and Oregon (ODFW) departments of fish and wildlife convene public hearings and take public testimony when considering proposals for new emergency rules. WDFW and ODFW then adopt regulations reflecting agreements reached. There is insufficient time to promulgate permanent rules.
